

There is a lot to figure out when it comes to hiring a company to perform major home remodeling project. Dureiko construction has come up with a list of important questions you should ask before investing any of your hard earned money into a project:

1. How many years has your company been in business?
2. Do all your subcontractors/employees carry full liability insurance and workers compensation?
3. Who is primarily in charge of your project?
4. How many projects like mine have you done in the past? When was the last time you performed one like mine?
5. Do you have any client references from these projects?
6. When you start a project like mine, what is the process like?
7. Are you fully certified under the new EPA lead law?
